Youth Center Follies Success

Proceeds from last week's Carmel Youth Center Follies amounted to almost $1,000, it was announced Tuesday. In fact, the show was so popular that it may be staged as an annual or semi-annual event.

The Follies, which had a goal of only $700, will make it possible to purchase a snack bar at the new Youth Center building on Fourth and Torres. The funds will be spent on a 24-foot snack bar, a hamburger grill, a sink with glass washers and sterilizers, two Coca Cola machines, an ice cream cabinet, three malt mixers, 10 tables, 50 brown leather chairs and 12 bar stools.

The Youth Center is expected to open on August 1.

Hatton Fields Sewer Costs Explained

By BILL MARTIN

Approximately 100 members of Carmel Unincorporated discussed the proposed sewer installation at Hatton Fields with the engineer for the project during the quarterly meeting on Tuesday. As is quite usual when taxpayers are faced with an assessment, many persons thought the estimated cost of the work, $418,411, much too high.

A few persons grew argumentative during the meeting, but they calmed down considerably when a representative from the Monterey County Health Department told them about the conditions in which they have been living in the Hatton Fields and Mesa area.

H. O. Laughery, Health Department sanitarian, told members of the organization the soil conditions have become so bad in Hatton Fields that the Federal Housing Administration will not finance construction of any more houses in the area until sewers are constructed. He pointed out that the depth of the soil in most of the area is only 6 to 14 inches and that a shelf of clay underneath makes it impossible for septic tanks to work properly. Draining sewage in many places is running right across homeowners' lawns, he said.

When asked why the Health Department had permitted continued construction of homes in Hatton Fields when septic tanks were inadequate to carry off sewage, he pointed out that there is no county law to stop people from building. He said home owners in the area would have to blame the California Real Estate Board for the conditions.

Mr. Laughery's statements followed a talk by Engineer Clyde Kennedy, who outlined the mechanics of the sewage assessment. He was introduced by Carmel Mayor Allen Knight, president of the Carmel Sanitary Board, who in turn was introduced by Tom Perry, of Carmel Unincorporated.

Mr. Kennedy said the assessments (of an estimated $7 a foot) would be determined by the engineer on the basis of "benefit to the property owner," not strictly on a front footage basis.

"Property that could be easily subdivided would obviously benefit more from the sewer installation than property that could not," he said.

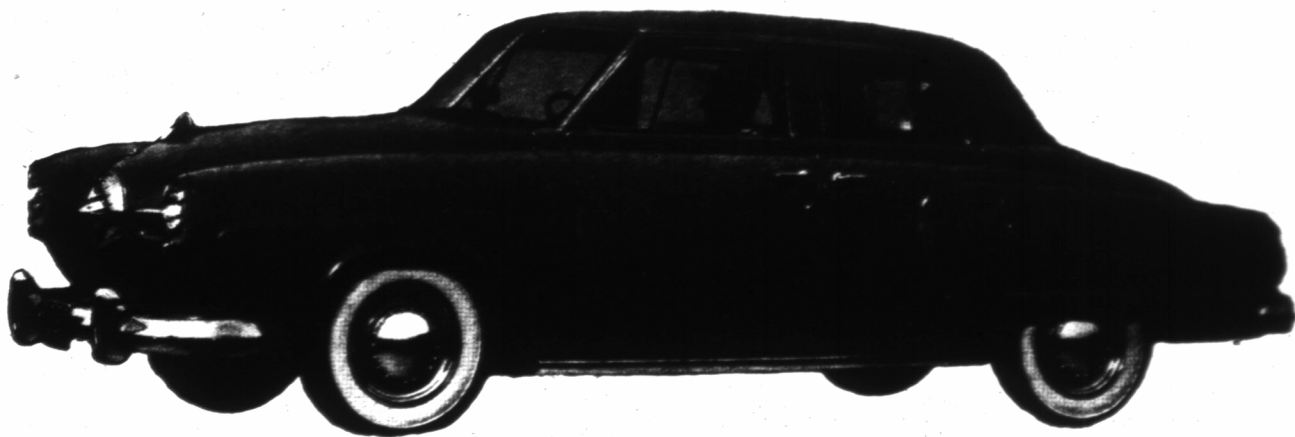

With other things equal, Mr. Kennedy stated, the average assessment will be figured on a front footage basis for an average lot of 100 feet in depth. There are 11 miles of sewers, he said, and someone must pay for it.

He reminded the group that the $400,000 estimate is merely an "educated guess" - that the low contracting bidder really sets the cost of the project. The expense of installing sewers in the Hatton Fields area is fairly high due to the fact that the ground is hard and blasting may be necessary to dig trenches for sewage pipes.

Residents would get 15 years in which to pay their individual assessments, if they wish, he said.

The Carmel Unincorporated meeting was conducted by President Archer M. R. Allen, who announced that the group now has 450 members.

Psychological Problems

By Bruno Franek

(Dr. Bruno Franek, a graduate of the University of Berlin, who has worked as psychiatrist in different parts of Germany as well as in Rome and Vienna, was invited by The SPECTATOR to write a series of short articles about generally interesting psychological phenomena.

If there are any psychological problems which you would like to have discussed, you are invited to write to The SPECTATOR: "Psychological Problems", Box A-O, Camel, California. -- Ed.)

Copyrighted 1950. Permission must be secured before reprinting any part of or all of this article.

A CONTROVERSY ABOUT PSYCHO-ANALYSIS

In Look Magazine, June 20, 1950, Andrew Salter wrote an article, "The Case Against Psycho-analysis," in which he strongly criticizes Freudian psycho-analytic al methods. Several people asked me what I thought of the article and the following is an example of such a conversation:

Visitor: This article of Salter's really bothers me and I would like to discuss it with you. Are you a psycho-analyst?

Psycho-therapist: No, I am not a psycho-analyst. I am a psycho-therapist, which means that I use more active methods of psychological treatment also.

V: But surely you are familiar with Freud and psycho-analysis?

P: Of course I am. In fact, I worked in the same room in the clinic in Vienna where Freud did his initial research. However I can't understand why this article distresses you so.

V: My brother has been visiting a psycho-analyst for the past five weeks. His progress has been very satisfactory, but now we are in a quandary as to whether to continue his treatments since we read that Salter says, "Unfortunately, in dealing with the ultimate results of analysis, the choice doesn't lie only between cures and non-cures. There's a third and far more terrifying possibility... Analysis can apparently give you something you didn't have in the first place, a first-class neurosis... It can make a normal person neurotic." What do you think about this?

P: Everybody has the right to publish his own opinions so long as they don't interfere with existing laws. But does this necessarily mean that you have to believe everything you read?

V: Of course not. But in this case I can't afford to be indifferent since my brother's happiness is at stake. How can I form an opinion about such a complicated subject as psycho-analysis when I can't even understand the technical terms in the textbooks. On the other hand Salter is easy to understand and his article has made a great impression on me.

P: Well, really this article has no scientific value at all.

V: But Salter definitely claims to be scientific, saying, "Let me assure the reader that I am not trying to be flippant or to make a vulgar oversimplification of the Freudian point of view."

P: Yes, I know, and he continues, "Let us try to keep a scientific point of view and consider the fundamental principles that guide the psycho-analyst in the treatment..." Anyway, let him have his say. At least your brother has improved in a short period of time, or do you take this to be an example of so-called "bad science?"

V: but now I'm not at all sure that his improvement is due to the psycho-analytical treatment. Remember what Salter cited about this. "The neuroses are 'cured' by osteopathy, chiropractic, nux vomica and bromides, benzedrene sulfate, change of scene, a blow on the head, and psycho-analysis, which probably means that none of these has yet established its real worth in the matter, and surely that psycho-analysis is no specific..."

V: Why don't we get down to brass tacks. Salter very clearly maintains that "at a cost of months of agony and thousands of dollars, a patient may or may not be cured by psycho-analysis... There is no scientific proof that it works..." He talks about "neat tricks, preposterous-appearing statements in psycho-analysis, unscientific method" and says, "It is as easy to nail a custard pie to the wall as to pin down the Freudian speculations..." What do you think of this?

P: I think that the picture Salter gives is a gross misrepresentation of the facts. I, like many others, have some reservations too, but one must distinguish between the personal opinions of certain psychoanalysts and psycho-analysis itself. Salter does not make this distinction and therefore you are left with a completely distorted picture of psycho-analysis itself. What, for instance, do you think of the examples he uses to demonstrate the fundamentals of Freudian analysis?

V: Frankly, it seems silly to me and I am unable to make out which one is confused, Freud or Salter.

P: I can assure you that Freud never stooped to as childish an explanation of his principles as are fabricated by Salter.

V: Is it true, as Salter says, that "the gate is a symbol of sexuality to all psycho-analysts?"

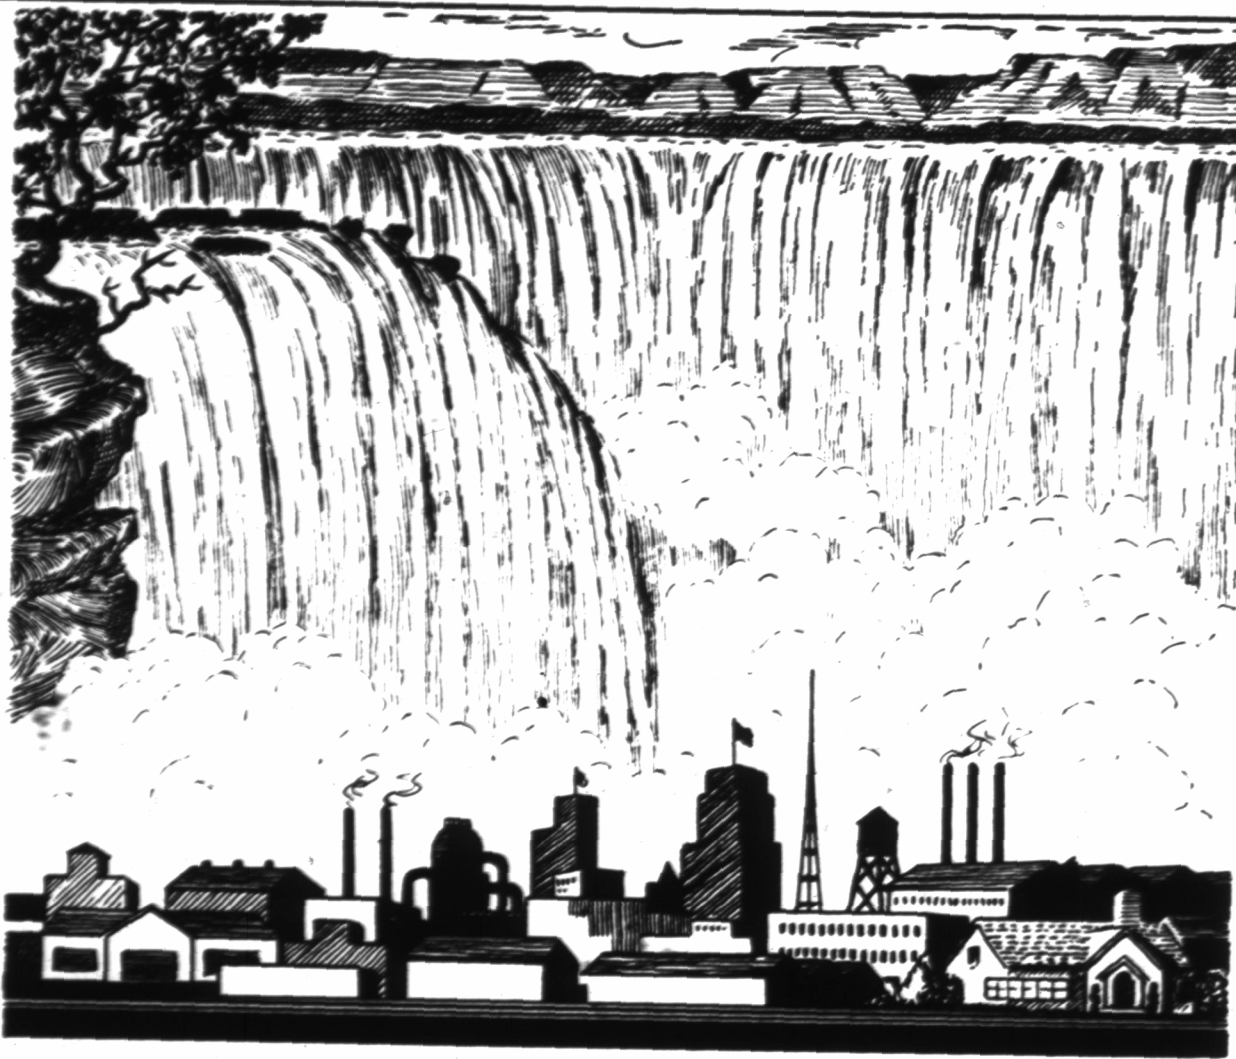

P: Not at all. Freud warns us again and again in his writings not to interpret an isolated symbol. He calls it a pernicious error to do this. (Chapter 12... A General Introduction to Psycho-analysis.)

V: Well, then is it accurate when Salter enumerates six principles and adds, "these are the Freudian fundamentals..."

P: Of course not. He deliberately omits some of Freud's most basic biological principles, without which Freud's teachings are completely incomprehensible, such as, that psychic life is determined by emotional drives which have a physiological basis, or that he regards psychic experiences and the sequence of their occurrences as determined primarily by constitutional or hereditary factors. Freud never deviated so long as he lived from this basic genetic-biological concept, the soundness of which has never been questioned by serious scientists. To call Freudian methods unscientific is rather absurd.

V: Do you think that Salter deliberately intends to mislead the layman reader?

P: In his defense I would have to assume that he is not sufficiently well informed.

The POWER of WATER

Water power is usually thought of as a force employed primarily for the turning of wheels or turbines, but water is versatile and its power can be used for many things. For example—as a solvent, a catalyst, a conveying medium, a diluent or dispersing medium, a cleansing agent, for the disposal of waste, and the production and distribution of heat. Water is also good for quenching thirst, aiding in bodily functions, irrigating flowers, forests, vegetables, and grains, for swimming, diving, and fishing, and for stirring the emotions by reflecting the silvery, romantic light of a summer moon.

Can you think of anything more useful than water? As Nature delivers it, water is free to all, but, to be available in a modern community, it must be "handled"—must be collected, stored, purified, and distributed. That is why you have to pay for the water you use, but, when you come to think of it, the cost is very little—less than a dime a ton. Any way you look at it, water is one of today's biggest bargains.

Shadow Of War

The invasion of Southern Korea by the Communists and the subsequent intervention by the United States air and sea forces was one of the biggest news stories since the Japanese surrender, but it certainly wasn't good news. Whether, like Manchuria, the Rhineland and the Spanish war, the Korean incident forms a prelude to World War III remains to be seen. Perhaps the rapid retaliatory action of this country will avert world battle. Many people think we have moved farther into the shadow of war, however. The above photo is our editorial for this week and is, we feel, self-explanatory. Polaroid One-Minute Photo.

Youth Center Voted $1,000 By Businessmen

The Carmel Business Association voted a donation of $1,000 to the new Carmel Youth Center building last week during a quarterly business meeting at the La Playa Ranch. The money will enable the building at Fourth and Torres to be completed and no mortgage will be necessary, according to Fred Godwin, president of the Youth Center.

The association's contribution raised the building fund total to $27,000, Mr. Godwin said. The Youth Center may also profit from a benefit performance by Freddy Martin and his orchestra, he added.

If the present schedule is maintained the building will be completed by August 1.

CARMEL VALLEY NOTES

A sprinkling of celebrities, a number of out-of-town visitors, and a gay batch of parties added up to another gala week in the valley.

Starting things off were Greer Garson and her husband, Buddy Fogelson, dining at The Carousel. And the next evening at the Carousel was made lively with the appearance of movie luminaries, Joan Crawford, her leading man, David Brian, John Agar, and a group of the movie cast here on location.

Among the out-of-town visitors in the valley and staying at Los Laureles Lodge, the Joseph Brantons, of San Francisco, of the well known coffee family; also from San Francisco, Mrs. Chirardelli Menefee and Sally Ann Menefee. From Los Angeles, screen writer Victoria Wolf, recently responsible for "Tales of Manhattan."

Speaking of writers, seen Sunday at Rancho Del Monte Country Club "talking shop like mad," Saturday Evening Post's Steve McNeil, novelists, Harry Dixon and Barbara Corrigan. The Dixons and children were dinner guests of the McNeils.

And while husband Harry chatted with his contemporaries, charming Mrs. Dixon, who is well known for her culinary skill, had the "gals" entranced with some mighty enticing recipes.

Also entertaining at the country club was Mrs. N. M. Leoni who brought the Gal Powers up for cocktails. The Powers were seen later dining at Los Laureles Lodge with the Paul Porters and Dr. Ed and Jean Tucker.

Besides the Powers, other restaurateurs enjoying "time off" at Los Laureles were the Karl Rebmans from the Shadows in San Francisco and the Gene Mc Aleers from Tarantinos on Fisherman's Wharf.

At Carmel Valley Inn, Guy Taylor, of the staff, enjoyed a happy weekend with his mother, Mary Jane Taylor, up from Los Angeles to celebrate her birthday. Also from Los Angeles, Dr. and Mrs. Virgil Chatterton celebrating their first anniversary.

And wasn't it an exciting evening at Holman's Guest Ranch, the moonlit night the Los Rancheros took over for an evening of folk dancing? All dressed in costume, dancing to melodious music in the patio under the stars, Los Rancheros made a romantic scene to watch. Grant Risdon is president of this dancing club.

One of the most interesting new groups to be organized in the valley is the Carmel Valley Resort Owners association, sparked by President Phil Wilson, Jr., Plenty of action in regard to promotion activities has already been the result of this group's functioning.

Speaking of activities, Carmel Valley is soon to reach the attention of top spots in the country, as soon to be released is the next issue of the colorful magazine California Pictorial which will feature Carmel Valley and its beauty.

EXCAVATING IMMENSE WATER SPEEDWAY FOR STATE FAIR

Daredevil drivers from all parts of California are turning up outboard and inboard motors in preparation for speedboat racing at the California State Fair.

The racing program, to be held Sundays, September 3 and 10, during the fair, will attract from 60 to 70 boats in each of 13 classifications. Drivers, who have either held national championships or who are well on the way to winning such ratings this year, will compete.

The aquatic course will parallel the inside oval of the mile race track. Bulldozers are carving out 65,000 cubic yards of earth, constructing turning basins 250 feet wide at each end and straight-aways 100 feet in width.

When the work of excavation is completed it will require 12,000,000 gallons of water to provide a depth of from four to five feet, sufficient for the fleet craft, some of which hit nearly 100 miles per hour on the straightaways.

BEATTIE TELLS ROTARY CLUB ABOUT MOTHER LODE COUNTRY

The Carmel Rotary Club met as usual at the Pine Inn on Wednesday. President Corum Jackson introduced the speaker, the peninsula's well known Ford & Mercury dealer, Bill Beattie. The talk was an interesting one having to do with the early mining days in the Mother Lode country, where the speaker was born. Samples of gold mined by Mr. Beattie were shown to club members.

DOUGLAS SCHOOL WILL OFFER EDUCATION FOR BOYS NEXT YEAR

Due to a growing demand for a private school for boys on the peninsula, and in keeping with the belief of leading educators that co-education best prepares young men and women for modern living, Mrs. Grace Parsons Douglas announces the renewal of a school for boys with the fall opening of the Douglas Schools at Pebble Beach.

Major J. Jack Cowan, who will head the new department, comes to Douglas with a wealth of experience gained in both private and public schools in California and in the South. Major Cowan received his degree from Temple University and did graduate work at the university of Texas and the University of Chicago. He is a specialist in child psychology and child problems. Major Cowan is the author of several educational papers, including, "The Power of Suggestion" and "Meditations on the Mind."

The Douglas Schools have been accredited since their inception; therefore, the scholastic standards combined with semi-military training are expected to fit the boys and girls mentally and physically for their future.

The Douglas Schools, situated among the pines of Del Monte Forest, offer healthful and delightful recreational facilities, including swimming, horseback riding, and supervised sports. Mrs. Douglas feels that historic Monterey Peninsula gives cultural advantages not found elsewhere; the nearness of Carmel and Monterey give the students access to many art and theatrical exhibits. Field trips to many of the early sites of government will provide valuable background knowledge of California's colorful history, she said.

FORMING LOCAL MUSIC TEACHERS ASSOCIATION

Plans for formation of a county branch of the California Music Teachers Association will be discussed tonight at 8 p.m. at Harmony House, Mission and Sixth, Carmel. Music teachers from Monterey County are urged to attend and may acquire further information by telephoning 7-4390.

The new organization is being sponsored locally by Mrs. Ralph Weston, Mrs. Irene Graham, members of the state association, Mrs. Kathryn Lansdowne and Miss Lily Walker, all of whom will serve as hostesses for tonight's meeting. Mrs. Maude Byer, a member of the board of directors of the state organization, will be present at the meeting.

The group will serve to promote talent, award scholarships and offer services for musical benefits.

CARMEL'S POPULATION JUMPS 52 PERCENT

Carmel's population figure didn't reach the 5,000 predicted by city officials, a preliminary census report indicates. However, the village in the past 10 years jumped 52 percent from a population of 2,837 to 4,312, according to Frederick Crockett, who supervises the census taking in this district.

The largest increase in Monterey County has been accredited to Monterey, which registered an increase of 58.8 percent from 10,084 to 16,120 during the past 10 years. Pacific Grove's population increased from 6,249 to 9,573.

EXTRA PERFORMANCES OF "UNKISSED BRIDE" FOR JULY 4 WEEKEND

"The Unkissed Bride," current show at California's First Theatre, Monterey, will run this Saturday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday nights, July 1, 2, 3, 4, the extra performances being given to take care of the Fourth of July vacationers.

Shrieks of laughter rock the historic adobe each weekend as the "Unkissed Bride's" difficulties mount, and the distracted bridegroom frantically climbs down the fire escape to preserve the amenities. Audiences get half their fun in the situations which would have so choked the public of a half century ago, but which today seem only mildly risqué.

Jeanne Semple in the role of the "dumb maid" continues to steal the show, her every movement and line evoking shouts of laughter.

Rhea Diveley, director, is responsible for the great success of the show, her expert and skillful training having resulted in a professional tempo.

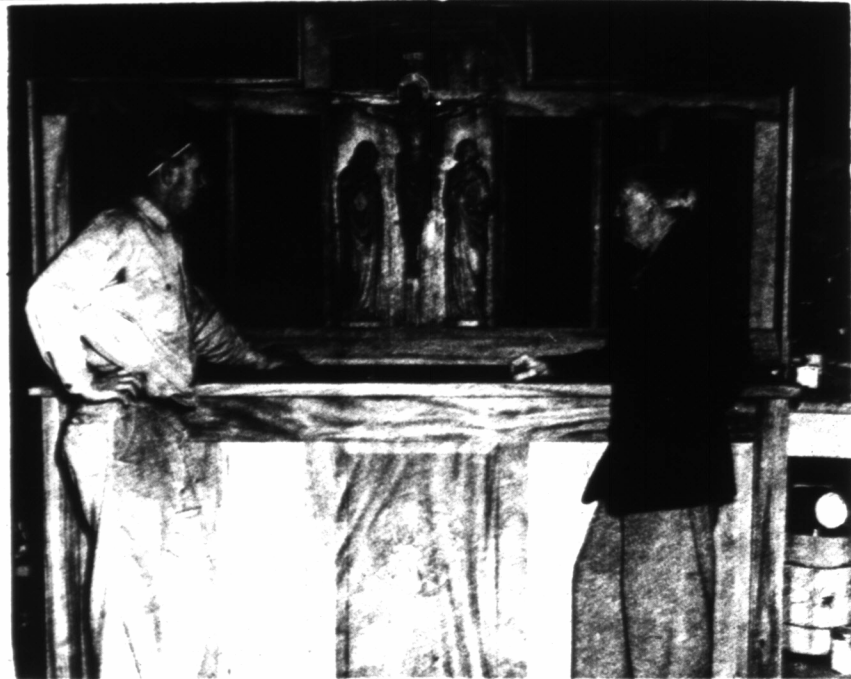

Alex Olivetti emcees the succession of funny olio acts which follow the regular show.

DINNER FOR RETIRED OFFICERS POSTPONED

The regular monthly dinner for Retired Officers of the Monterey Peninsula area, which ordinarily would have been held on July 4, has been postponed to July 11 because of the holiday.

WIN PRIZE

Junipero Parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West, won first prize for its publicity scrapbook at the State NDGW convention last week at Santa Cruz.

Shown assembled for the first time is the altar for the new All Saints' Episcopal Church in Carmel. Final details of the painstaking work are discussed by Alec Miller (right), renowned Monterey wood sculptor, and Ivor Prosser, Carmel cabinetmaker. Miller carved in yellow poplar the figures of the reredos-- Christ on the Cross, the Virgin Mary on His right, and St. John the Apostle. He is now busy on four more similar figures for the remaining panels. The altar itself was fashioned by Prosser in janisero, a South American hardwood, at his Carmel shop where the whole fixture is nearing completion. Photo by ART McEWEN.

Open "The Swan" July 13th

The opening performance of Ferenc Molnar's "The Swan" by The Wharf Players will be held on the evening of July 13 at the Wharf Theater in Monterey. Directed by Dan Totheroh and produced by Kenn Smith, the show will star Barbara Norberg and Said Riza.

Other performers include Frederick Stevens, Victor Brune, Bill Fort, Hildreth Hare, Elizabeth Goudge, David Eldridge and Dee Olivetti, with Allen Knight, Jr., and Warren Masten in the junior roles.

"The Swan" is a period play with costumes of 50 years ago, and Bill Cappy is the set designer.

"The SS Glencairn" cast have now completed their tenth performance of Eugene O'Neill's four one-act sea plays, the remaining four performances to be presented tonight, Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

Fred Chapman of the "SS Glencairn" cast, hit an all time low on a costume budget, when he purchased an aged panama suit, a shirt and tie for the sum of $2 at the Salvation Army Store. Those who have seen the performance remember Fred as "Nick" in "The Long Voyage Home," a disreputable and sinister character who steers unsuspecting seamen into a waterfront bar in order that Joe, the barkeep, played by Kenn Smith, can slip knockout drops in their drinks.

SPREADING the NEWS...

By Howard Statham

RESIDENTS OF THIS AREA (and visitors, too, as far as that goes) are hereby informed that if the next time they look at the place where the Pacific Ocean has always been and discover that it isn't around any longer, there's a reason for its disappearance—a reason just as logical as a good many other things in this world, and a lot more interesting.

A lady of Carmel has passed on to me the information that she became involved in a conversation the other day with a little girl of five or six who informed her that she and a slightly older companion were going down to look at the ocean and that, when they had finished looking, they were going to pull the plug.

All those of you who admire the spectacle of the waves crashing on the rocks should soak up each view of the Pacific with the thought in mind that it might be your last. After all, we who live in an age which has produced two such widely separated wonders as the singing commercial and the atom bomb shouldn't be greatly surprised by anything. Maybe the kids have something in the Plug Theory. Maybe the only reason that the ocean is still there (if it is, when this is published) is that they just haven't had time to go down to the beach and do their dirty work.

THE SAME TWO LITTLE GIRLS probably would have found a warm welcome awaiting them at the Carmel Theater last week if they had offered their drainage services after the showing of a double-bill consisting of "Whirlpool" and "Undertow." Any waterlogged movie-goers who are in the mood for something a little less liquid can find some at the Carmel Theater Sunday, Monday and Tuesday in the slightly dry humor of Clifton Webb. In his new picture, "Cheaper By the Dozen," the child-hating baby sitter of "Sitting Pretty" has changed his tune to the extent that he plays the father of 12 children. Myrna (The Perfect Wife) Loy helps out in the role of the mother, and all I can say is here's to parenthood if it's possible to have 12 kids and still look like that. Never underestimate the power of a casting director, etc.

BEFORE LEAVING THE SUBJECT of water completely, this is as good a time as any to mention that the same lady who had the plug business pulled on her once received a letter inquiring about a certain article on sale in her shop. Thinking that maybe someone was being funny, but not quite knowing for sure, she replied to the letter and by return mail received an order with a check enclosed. Her reason for thinking that all, perhaps, was not on the up and up? Only the fact that the letter came from Lotta Bridgewater, whose address was none other than The Oasis, Freewater, Oregon. Enough?

THERE'S SOMETHING NEW IN CARMEL in the line of architecture and edibles, and the man responsible for both is named Andre J. M. Laurent. Today Mr. Laurent is opening a shop (on Dolores Street, next to the Monterey County Trust and Savings Bank) where the interior decorations have carried the uneven roofline that characterized some of the late Hugh Comstock's early work to an even greater degree of slantiness, if such a word exists.

The three off-kilter "buildings" that give Mr. Laurent his office and storage space in the new shop have been designed with the idea of bringing another touch of France (the country Mr. Laurent hails from) to Carmel. The buildings have been adapted from actual French architecture--the one on the left being a replica (more or less) of Mr. Laurent's home in Port Royal near Versailles, the one in the middle typifying almost any French farmhouse you could name, and the one on the right featuring the garden door of Mr. Laurent's house in Brittany. Mr. Laurent believes that almost any of the 200 American troops who were stationed at the latter house during the first World War would have no difficulty in recognizing the door--it's that distinctive.

The reason for the French atmosphere is the fact that Mr. Laurent is introducing to the Monterey Peninsula something it hasn't seen (or, in all likelihood, eaten) before. Namely, Quimper Laces, French pastry described as "an Old World delicacy for the New World," which originated in Quimper, a town in Brittany. Over there they are known as crepes dentelles.

Quimper laces are made of flour, cream, butter, eggs, sugar, rum, vanilla and only Mr. Laurent knows what else. They come in a crisp, rolled-up form and should make quite an impression on people who like things that are different. They bear more of a resemblance to candy than to cake, says Mr. Laurent, and each one weighs about as much as two cigarettes--which means that they're light.

As far as he knows, Mr. Laurent will be the only producer of Quimper Laces in the United States. The only other place he's seen them over here is in New York, but those were imported. All of which means that people in Carmel and vicinity will now be able to eat fresher Quimper Laces than anyone else in the country, and that's quite an unusual distinction, when you come to think of it.

LOU AND GAL POWERS

nos petits secrets

By Janice

Every summer the "Boutique" of every couturier is bedecked with new and charming accessories. In town, in the country, or at the beach, they are always the little touch-of-nothing that enhance a costume or a dress.

I just gathered for you a few ideas that are the latest novelties of Paris:

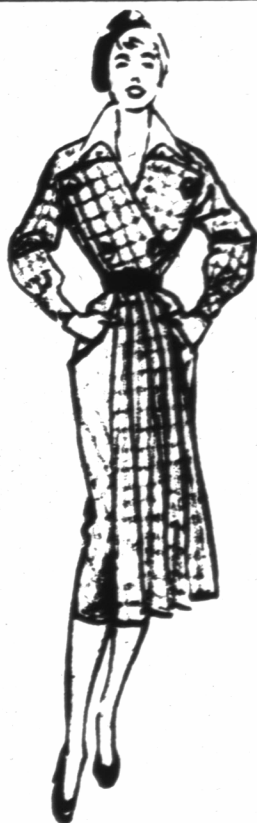

Piguet offers a raffia belt, with a bunch of cherries as a buckle, on a simple white dress... Balmain uses a polkadot cotton square with a very wide white hem as belt or handkerchief. He also makes polkadot organdy flowers of the most charming effect. On the lapel of a suit or the neckline of a dress it is young and very gay looking.

Alwynn, the very young (24 years old) and much celebrated couturier, gives this advice: If you live in the country, the ideal party-wear is a simple dress - as simple as you can find - and a silver or gold leather belt - sometimes sparkling with rhinestones.

Of course every year they dream up those little hats made of organdy, ribbons and flowers. Gres' favorite is one covered with apple blossoms. Balmain shows the now classic daisies-bonnet. Schiaparelli is more practical. She wants you to be protected from the sun without hiding your eyes behind sun-glasses. So she created a big wide hat made of white pique and knitted cotton. The brim of the hat is attached to the crown by four large buttons.

Good news for French women and tourists: our biggest Parisian couturiers decided recently to make some of their models in every collection available for the "smaller income" women. Every season they will choose two dresses, two suits and a coat to be made in their own workshops - for as little as 12,000 francs ($35) or as high as 20,000 francs ($55). These models will be found in all the large department stores, not only in Paris, but in the other big towns of France. Those models will carry a brand name as famous as Dior, Fath, Lanvin, Piguet and Alwynn.

NEW PERFUMES: Baghari by Robert Piguet as exotic as its name... Vent Vert (Green wind) by Balmain: refreshing and subtle... Fille D'Eve (Eve's daughter) by Nina Ricci - feminine and... tempting! La Rose (a rose) by Marcel Rochas - young and soft... J'aime (I am in love) by Jacques Heim-altogether sweet and spicy... Messenger by Renoir -- refined and aristocratic.

ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S

WHO IS IT?

Fred Decker, chaplain and officer's coach of Carmel Lodge 680, Free and Accepted Masons, is featured in this week's "Who Is It?" Born 40 years ago in Farmington, Utah, Mr. Decker lived in Utah, Idaho, Pennsylvania, Wyoming and Missouri, in that order, before coming to Carmel 20 years ago. His father's occupation as a security and bond salesman (except when he tried his hand as a rancher in Idaho) kept the family moving every time he changed territory. Mr. Decker graduated from high school in Cheyenne, then went to Missouri to manage a Piggley-Wiggley Grocery Market. Having always wanted to come to California, he jumped at the chance to take over management of the drug store and newspaper stand in the old Del Monte Hotel, which he did in 1930. Later, he managed a Purity Market in Pacific Grove and took over the Carmel Purity in 1934, managing it three years. In 1937, he opened his own store - Decker's Market on Ocean Avenue, and he has been located here ever since. Married in 1934 to the former Elaine Mann, of Salinas, he is the father of one girl and one boy: Durell, 8, and Paget, 4. A past president of Carmel Lions and a past patron of Monterey Eastern Star, Mr. Decker found one of his main interests only last October. After his wife had tried for three years to get him interested in folk dancing, he finally condescended to give it a whirl. Now they can't keep him away. What's more, he is president of The Spindrifters, a local folk dancing group. Since Mrs. Decker never shared his love for hunting and fishing, folk dancing has proved to be a very sociable find for both of them. He still does a little hunting and fishing, however, and (ah, yes, of course) he plays golf. As for how he feels about Carmel: Well, he's lived here 20 years - which ought to answer your question.

The Golden Bough Court building (top photo) being built by Sumral Ottrich, of Carmel, is expected to be completed September 1, according to Contractor Ed Neroda. Enclosed in a patio, the building has been designed in Tudor English style by Charles Simons of Architect Robert Jones' office. It will house three shops (with basement storage space) and three second floor apartments. Bottom photo shows the entrance to the Golden Bough Court from Ocean Avenue. Left, Mr. Ottrich's Candles of Carmel shop; right, Twigs of Carmel. The sign above the bench at rear says: "This Bench Reserved for Sidewalk Engineers," and it has accommodated many on-lookers, although it was a little too early in the morning when photos were taken for most of the "regulars" to be on hand. AWVS TO HOST LANGUAGE SCHOOL FACULTY AT TEA

The first in a series of teas for members of the faculty of the Army Language School, Presidio of Monterey, will be held during July by Mrs. G. W. C. Whiting's International Relations Committee of the Monterey County Unit, American Women's Voluntary Services, according to Mrs. Frank Ringland, chairman.

The tea will be held from 5 to 7 p.m. Sunday, July 9, at the home of Mrs. Louis Lengfeld, of Pebble Beach.

ONLY ONE COUNTY WAS ANTI-WARREN IN PRIMARY ELECTIONS

In every county of the state except one, Governor Earl Warren polled a greater vote than James Roosevelt in the recent primary election, the governor's campaign leaders announced Wednesday.

The single county in which the Governor trailed in total popular vote was Plumas, and the margin against him there was only 144 votes.

In some other counties, unofficial returns showed margins approaching three to one for Warren. For the state as a whole, the official count is expected to show a popular majority for the governor of at least 700,000 votes on the Republican and Democratic tickets combined.

The governor held greater than a three to two lead in the combined vote in Los Angeles County. In San Francisco, where he won both the Democratic and Republican races, Warren's total vote was nearly two to one over Roosevelt's.

Despite this encouraging majority, Governor Warren has made it known that he will conduct a vigorous campaign in the fall. He already has met with campaign chairmen of approximately 30 counties to lay preliminary campaign plans.

Plumas County, which stands alone in the Roosevelt column for this year's primary, also was the only county which did not return a majority for Warren in the 1942 general election, when he won his first term as governor. The 1942 margin was 189 votes.

"FAVORITE DOG" PHOTOS ARE SOUGHT IN CONTEST

"My Favorite Dog Picture" is the announced theme of this year's photo contest sponsored by the Gaines Dog Research Center, New York City, as part of the observance of the 1950 National Dog Week this fall, according to word received by this newspaper.

Prizes totaling $875 are being offered for photographs of a favorite dog or dogs or favorite photographs of a dog or dogs, according to Harry Miller, director of the Center.

Entries will be accepted in two classifications: 1. Work of amateur and, 2. Work of member of a camera club. In each classification there is a first prize of $250, a second of $100, and a third of $50. In the camera club classification, there is an additional $25 prize for each of the three clubs which the winners will have named as their membership affiliation.

Deadline for entries in this contest is 4 p.m., Friday, September 8, 1950. A copy of the official contest rules may be had on request to the Gaines Dog Research Center, 250 Park Avenue, New York 17, N.Y.
